6	Post-graduate career and continuing ed support
20	Would like to hear more information on the current economic realities of the college and what plans if any exist to effectively address them. Something beyond blue sky. Reality of significantly reduced college age student population, reduced number of donors and reduced enrollment compared to 10 years ago all combined with a low endowment. Not a good foundation for the college's future.
24	It's difficult to rank as I'm not up to snuff on what's going on at the college today having graduated in 1960. This is not the place to ask, but are there any plans for a 65th reunion for the class of '60? I'm the class president but have heard nothing.
35	career networking
52	Financial and Strategic responsibility
54	I accidentally clicked one of the options and was unable to remove a response so I just put it as 7.
56	Mental health of students
63	Community engagement needs to be expanded. Need to help pressure the city to cleanup the area in general and EC students/employees can be a part of that.
75	On campus events and activities unrelated to sports.
99	Insolvent in extra activities on campus and around Elmira focused for students
115	I am unable to rank these qualities due to distance from and years away from Elmira.

196 I did not indicate "other" in question 18.

321 I was able to get the help I needed to pass all my courses and graduate.

324 I'm disappointed that my college has turned into such emphasis on sports. I wish it were more focused on academics and job opportunities. Sports gets way too much attention in this country's general public, in my opinion. In many institutions in America, academics seem to take a back seat to sports.

ResponseID Response

327	Ability to help alumni find jobs when needed after graduation and students meaningful internships i felt was a promise not kept by the college, but was needed. I also felt my degree and knowledge upon graduation was obsolete as many marketing venues required some graphic design knowledgeable but no courses were ever offered in this.
343	Awareness of how a change effects others before it is set in stone

361	Because of the smaller enrollment and smaller class sizes, I always felt that interaction and engagement with professors (and even the President) both in and out of class and on campus was such an important part of EC culture. How many colleges invite graduating seniors (the entire class) to the President's House to celebrate?
364	There was no #18. The last question was #14.

ResponseID Response

90	Academic support for first-year students. Advisors need to learn the strengths and weaknesses of our students. If a student enters EC with a 2.0 out of high school, we immediately need to pay attention to that student rather than waiting until they are in a deep hole following Term I. Maybe creating a class for 'at-risk' students to take their first semester to set them up for success. If Term I doesn't go well, then let's consider placing them in lower-level courses rather than immediately into their major or high-level work.

Now we will not be able to ever go again or at least until we retire. We are teachers and cannot do the fall. I understand why it was moved but it now deprives us of future fun. Our oldest daughter got into EC but wasn't interested in attending, even when she got into lecom. My wife and I were sad but every other college gave our daughter more money. She also would be unable to do sports at EC bc there are no more jv sports and we met with the soccer coach and he said she wouldn't be able to try out for the team.
